

Teaching Experience – a Legacy for Generations

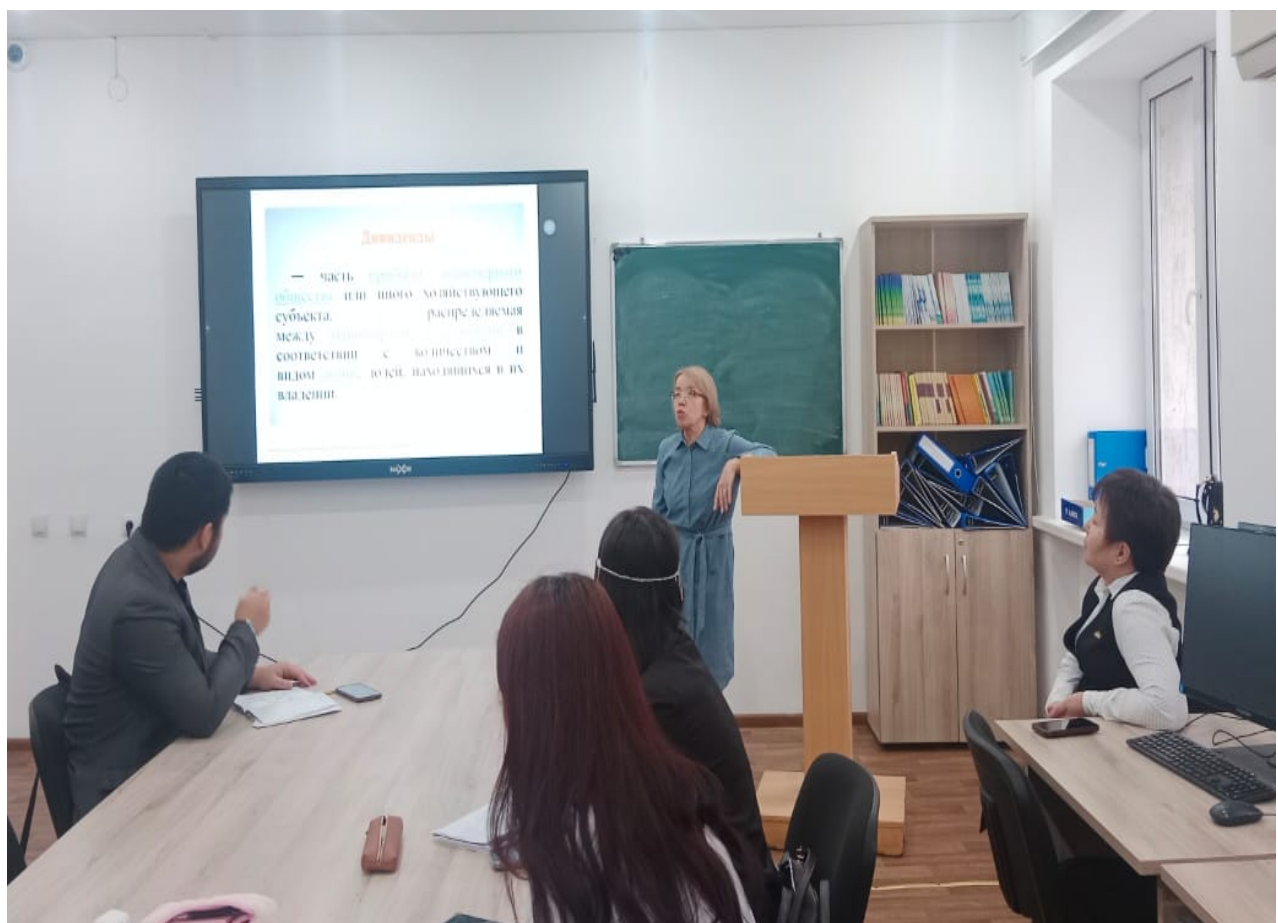

Our university held a methodological seminar designed to share the professional knowledge and long-term experience of an experienced instructor with young professionals.

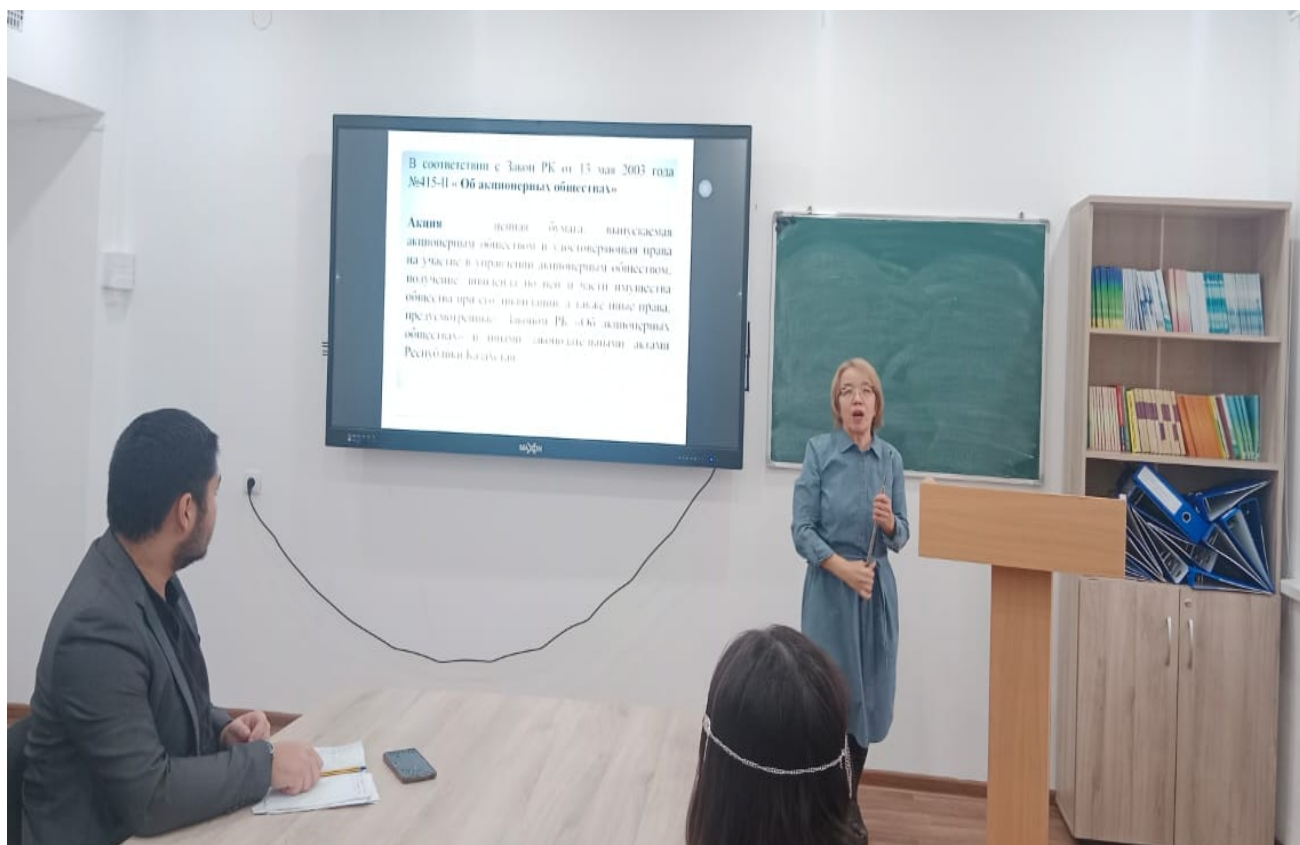

The seminar presented effective approaches to teaching methodology, pedagogical experience, and modern models for working with students.

Such meetings are an excellent training ground for young instructors, and the experience of our qualified instructors is an invaluable legacy for the younger generation.

On November 12, 2025, Associate Professor Dametken Tukenovna Dzhumanova of the Department of Finance, Accounting, and Audit gave an open lecture on "Dividend Policy Management" in the subject "Financial Management" for third-year students of group 07-045-23-12.

The open lecture proved to be very useful for demonstrating teaching experience and sharing methodological knowledge with colleagues. It was conducted using new information tools, new technologies, interactive learning, and problem-based methods.
