

On May 17, 2024, a project competition “Agritech Startup ideas” was held. The organizer of the competition is the NJSK Kazakh Agrotechnical Research University named after S. Seifullin, the general sponsor of the competition is the manufacturer of high-quality, environmentally friendly agricultural products, Astana-Onim JSC.

The purpose of this competition is to search for innovative ideas in the field of agriculture in the following areas:

- digital solutions in agriculture
- foodtech (projects and solutions in the food industry)
- agrotech (projects and solutions in the agricultural sector).

According to the results of the competition, the "AgriCashFlow" team with a project on the topic "Digitalization of agricultural products" consisting of A. Daniyar, L. Zhaksylyk, A. Sagatova, A. Seitkhalieva took third place and became the owners of a Huawei laptop, the "Agrofarm" team with a project on the topic “Business model for poultry production on a private farm”, composed of Abenova A., Dosymkulov R., were rewarded with a letter of gratitude. Scientific supervisors are A. B. Temirova, G. K. Narbaeva.

This competition provided students with a unique opportunity to share their ideas and proposals in the field of development of agriculture and the food industry.

